A RESPITE GRANTED

Adams and Sawyer Will Not Hang Until November 1st In Any Event.

THE PRESIDENT INTERVENES

Grounds for Pardon of Alleged Mutineers in Wilmington Jail Will Be Fully Investigated—Mr. Rountree and Rev. Bennett North.

(By Associated Press.)

Oyster Bay, Aug. 7.—President Roosevelt to-day granted a respite until November 1st of the execution of the death sentence in the case of Robert Sawyer and Arthur Adams, negroes who are confined in the Wilmington, N. C., jail, having been convicted of murder and mutiny on the high seas. The stay was granted because of the confession of Henry Scott, who said on the scaffold just before he was hanged that he had killed the three officers and the cook of the schooner H. A. Berwind, which sailed from Philadelphia July 6, 1905, and for which the three were convicted. Another negro implicated in the mutiny was killed also by Scott.

The first news of the respite for Arthur Adams and Robert Sawyer reached the city yesterday through the medium of a telegram to Messrs. Rountree & Carr and to George L. Peschau, Esq., of Southport. The telegram was from Peyton Gordon, Pardon Clerk, in Washington, D. C., and merely stated that the President had granted a respite to Sawyer and Adams until November 1st. They were sentenced to hang on the 17th of this month.

It is presumed that the respite is in order that the claims of the attorneys for an absolute pardon for their clients may be fully investigated before any action is taken. Mr. Rountree has been North several days and went to Oyster Bay to see the President and personally present to him the cause of the prisoners. Rev. E. R. Bennett, rector of St. Mark's Church, colored, of this city, has also been North for several days and it is understood that it was his mission to personally intercede with the President in behalf of Adams and Sawyer to whom he has faithfully ministered in a spiritual way since they were first imprisoned here. It is believed that the representations of the Rev. Bennett with regard to the case had much influence with the President in granting the respite in order that there might be a fuller hearing of all claims for pardon.

The news of the respite was communicated to the prisoners in the jail yesterday and they were profoundly grateful. They are perfectly sanguine and strongly hope for absolute pardon.

Mr. Peschau called on the prisoners yesterday afternoon and informed them of the President's action. Sawyer has been quite sick for several days with fever and was not prepared to fully express himself on the respite, but there was a look of relief on the face of each and it is easily to be seen that their hope was very much strenghtened.

STATE IS STIRRED BY SALISBURY LYNCHING

Troops Under General Armfield Are Watching at Jail to Prevent Further Trouble—Contagion Spread to Greensboro—The Raleigh End.

(By Associated Press.

Charlotte, N. C., Aug. 7.—To-night three companies of the North Carolina National Guard, one command from Statesville, a company of infantry and a battery of artillery from Charlotte, surrounding the jail at Salisbury, N. C., while sentries with loaded guns and orders to shoot to kill, patrol the 4 streets that flank the prison. There have been threats and rumors of threats all day but all is quiet there to-night. It is believed the worst is over.

Geo. Hall, the ex-convict from Montgomery county who is supposed to have led he mob which lynched the three alleged murderers of the Lyerly family last night, is in jail, the plan to rescue him from the clutches of the law, rumors of which caused Governor Glenn to hurry troops to Salisbury has not materialized. The surviving negroes, Henry Lee, George Ervin and two women, are safe in the jail at Charlotte and there is no danger of violence to them. The special term of court which convened to try the victims of mob vengeance, acting under orders from the Governor, will not adjourn until every effort to convict the leaders of the mob has been exhausted.

The case is being worked up and many arrests are expected tomorrow. The Governor is determined to push the matter to the bitter end. The cases against the surviving defendants, against whom true bills were found, were continued until the regular term of Rowan county court.

Long before the sun rose this morning curious persons went to the scene of the lynching and cut off the toes, the fingers and ears of the negroes who were hung to the limb of the big tree on Henderson's Base Ball Ground. The bodies were badly mutilated before they were removed. It looks as if a lot of sorry fellows assisted by a few good citizens, from the scene of the Lyerly murder, did the work.

When the court was convened this morning there was a slight diminution in the crowd though every seat was taken.

Solicitor Hamner made a motion to continue the cases against the surviving prisoners until the regular term. Judge Long replied that he would make the order. He then turned to the crowd and in a clear voice full of feeling said:

"There was a venire called here to try this case this morning at ten o'clock. The grand jury had found a true bill and the court had made an order that two hundred veniremen appear at the court house that the

IN LOCAL POLITICS

Complexion of Race for Shrievalty Is Being Widely Discussed on Streets. Chairman Bellamy on the Senatorial Outlook—Primary.

Although no formal announcement has been made, the appearance of hitherto active supporters of Justice John Furlong for sheriff in the approaching county campaign, in the ward and precinct meetings of rival candidates, gives all but absolute confirmation of the rumors that have been prevalent several days to the effect that very soon Justice Furlong would withdraw from the race and cast his strength as far as possible to Mr. S. Percy Cowan for the coveted position. Meetings of Mr. Cowan's supporters in a number of the wards were held last night, and from the personnel of those who attended it is a foregone conclusion that Justice Furlong is out of the race and that the bulk of his strength has formed the alignment, which Mr. Furlong is said to have desired. The reported withdrawal has been the talk of the town for several days, and agreements as to future political patronage are said to be on tapis and will "all come out in the wash" as the date for the primaries now and in the city campaign a year hence roll around.

An interesting visitor in the city yesterday was George H. Bellamy, Esq., of El Paso, whom his intimate friends like to refer to as the "Duke of Brunswick." Mr. Bellamy said the object of his visit was purely business and he had very little to say on the subject of politics. In the matter of the Senatorial honors for which his county has endorsed him, Mr. Bellamy said he had every encouragement from New Hanover and would be elected. Asked as chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee of his county, as to the probable date for the Senatorial Convention for the district composed of New Hanover and Brunswick, he said that the New Hanover primary law clearly provided for both county and legislative offices to be voted for in the primaries, and in that event the convention could not, of course, be held until after the primaries here on September 19th. Mr. Bellamy said that he was pleased that this was so, inasmuch as he desired to go before the people in New Hanover for endorsement as Brunswick's candidate this year, rather than have the matter settled before any convention. It was the Democratic way of submitting their issues and candidates and he was perfectly willing to abide the results. Mr. Bellamy was in the best of health and spirits and said that he would answer a communication from Chairman Jas. H. Buriss, of the New Hanover Committee, relative to the Senatorial Convention upon his return to his home in Brunswick.

OFFER IS APPROVED

Board of Audit and Finance Concurs in Proposition to Buy Water Plant.

REGULAR MEETING HELD

Number of Important Matters Are Considered—Aldermen Lucky In Getting Appropriations for Many City Needs—Street Paving.

The offer of $70,000 to the Clarendon Water Works Company for the purchase of its plant in this city, as recommended by the Water Works Commission and adopted by the Aldermen at their regular meeting Monday night, was approved by the Board of Audit and Finance at its regular semi-monthly session last night. In addition a large number of other matters of importance were disposed of, continuing the meeting of the board to almost a parallel with the midnight session of the co-ordinate board the night before.

All members of the board were present except Mr. S. P. McNair, who is out of the city. There were also present Alderman Karr, who appeared with reference to several public building contracts; Alderman Johnson, in reference to the water works matter and the deep wells; Alderman Brown, with reference to a number of additional lights that are wanted and the filling in of a ravine at Front and Wright streets, and Alderman Price, who was present to urge approval of the bids for fitting up quarters for the public library in the City Hall building. All got quite all they wanted and retired early, well satisfied with the treatment they had received in the way of appropriations.

In reference to the bill of Mr. T. F. Tyler, amounting to $225 for repairs to the Fourth street bridge engine house, which had been held up for information, Mr. Karr appeared and stated that while bids were not advertised for, several contractors were asked to submit proposals and Mr. Tyler was the lowest. Mr. Tyler wanted his money and had refused to go ahead with the contracts for building the stables for the police horses and the dog pound until the liability of the city was determined by some action of the board. It was agreed to approve the bill for the engine house contract, but the other contracts were held up until bids were submitted to the Finance Board. Mr. Karr said that he would have these at the next meeting. The contract for the stables for the police horses amounts to $595.

The action of the Aldermen relative to the purchase of the water plant came over in an official communication. Chairman McQueen at first expressed the opinion that the Board of Audit and Finance had nothing to do with the proposition unless it came over in the natue of a contract for approval. Mr. Johnson explained that concurrence was wanted as an evidence of good faith and to give the commission an official standing in making the negotiations. Some remark was made at the offer of the commission being so much in excess of the valuation placed on the plant by the expert. Mr. Johnson explained that by saying it was thought best to make a higher bid to rid the city of legal complications and to take over the business with a revenue at the outset. It was suggested that the Water Company had bonds outstanding for something like $80,000, and there were several suits pending for damages. Inquiry was made if it was expected that the city would shoulder these obligations. Mr. Johnson replied emphatically in the negative. Mr. Johnson further said that the offer was for the company to retain the filter plant now under construction and the standpipe, both of which would be of no use to the city in the event of a purchase. Several expressed the opinion that the company would not accept the offer made, but upon motion of Mr. Yates, and seconded by Mr. Wilder, the board approved the action of the commission and the proposition to buy will be made in writing by Chairman Johnson, of the commission, to-day.

Alderman Price presented the bids for fitting up the library quarters on the second floor of the City Hall and the award to T. M. Simmons, for the carpenter work at $195, and to J. W. S. Harvey, for the painting at $318, was approved. Mr. Price explained that it was hoped to heat the library from the plant now in use in the City Hall building.

A saving in a reduction of the rate having been made sufficient to meet the cost, Alderman Brown secured

J. M. BUNTING DEAD

Leading Wilmington Real Estate Agent Died Rather Suddenly Late Last Night.

HEART DISEASE THE CAUSE

Walked Home With His Brother From Drug Store, Suffered an Attack on the Way and Expired in An Hour.

Mr. Justin M. Bunting, a leading real estate dealer of Wilmington and a gentleman held in the highest esteem in this city, died suddenly this morning at 12:30 o'clock at his home, No. 320 Walnut street. This announcement will come as a great shock to very many friends who saw him at his place of business as usual yesterday in his apparently usual good health and jovial spirits, and to still others with whom he talked down town early last night.

Mr. Bunting had spent the early evening at the drug store of his brothers, Messrs. N. E. and J. Hicks Bunting, on North Front street, and about 11 o'clock left with Mr. Hicks Bunting on his way to his home on Walnut street. They had not proceeded very far before Mr. Bunting suffered an acute attack of heart trouble with which he had been affected before and by the time the residence was reached he was desperately ill. Dr. L. H. Love, the family physician, was hastily summoned and he did all he could for the sufferer, but the efforts were in vain and within an hour or a little more, Mr. Bunting was dead. All members of the family in the city at the time of his death were with him when he passed away.

Mr. Bunting was in the fifty-second year of his age and had lived in Wilmington practically all his life, having been engaged in ratter years in the real estate and fire insurance business at which he was singularly successful. Only a few weeks ago he completed a handsome building on Princess street and had just moved his offices in the building a few days before he died. He was a man of genial disposition, frank, open and with a kind word for everyone. He had good business ability and had amassed a competency during his life time. He will be sadly missed in the community and by his family, who have the tenderest sympathy of a host of friends in their bereavement. Mr. Bunting was a member of the Royal Arcanum and possibly several other fraternal orders in the city.

There are surviving Mr. Bunting his aged mother, Mrs. R. J. Bunting, three brothers and two sisters, Messrs. Nash E. and J. Hicks Bunting, Capt. S. V. Bunting and Mrs. H. F. Wilder, all of this city, and Mrs. W. H. Murphy, of Birmingham, Ala.

As yet the funeral arrangements have not been made. Absent members of the family have been notified of the death and the hour of the services will depend largely upon the time of their arrival.

In Justice Bornemann's Court.

Justice Bornemann spent a busy morning yesterday in straightening out an entanglement from the Sound in which Mr. Henry Woesbe and several colored persons were "lawing" about some trouble of several days ago. The matter, upon the advice of Justice Bornemann, was settled amicably and the litigants retired wiser and happier than before they had the benefit of the justice's prudent counsel.

The Option Has Expired.

The option on the Stokley Place, on Wrightsvile Sound, which it was hoped to secure for the proposed Children's Home, expired yesterday and the committee will now have to get a new option or look for another site. This was a great disappointment to those at the head of the movement, but there has been no relaxation of their efforts and they still hope to be successful.

Died in Washington, D. C.

Many of the older residents of Wilmington who enjoyed her acquaintance, were pained to learn yesterday of the death of Mrs. Frederick Hill, nee Miss Sarah Watters, of this city, who passed away at her home in Washington Monday night. She was a daughter of the late Dr. John and Mrs. Mary Etta Watters, of Wilmington, and was held in the highest esteem by all who knew her. The remains will reach Wilmington on the train from the North this morning, and the funeral will be conducted from St. James' at 11 o'clock, thence to Oakdale cemetery, where the remains will be laid to rest.

TWO CRIMES AGAINST THE STATE.

The lynching of the three negroes at Salisbury Monday mid-night was the manifestation of a spirit of genuine lawlessness and an utter defiance of law. A court of justice of North Carolina had convened to try the accused, a true bill had been returned against them and there is no doubt that they would have been found guilty if the evidence would have warranted it. There was no sign that there would be a miscarriage of justice and the fiends be allowed to escape the penalty of the law, hence there was no earthly reason why the mob should have violently taken the case out of the hands of the court of the State. It was a useless debauching of citizenship to satisfy the vengeance of the mob and gratify what appears to have been genuine gluttony to take the lives of the victims contrary to and in spite of the law of the State.

The lynching is not only a blot upon Rowan county but upon the State of North Carolina The horrible aspect and diabolical wantoness of the mob's crime is all the more emphasized because a court was sitting to administer justice according to law and that a judge of the State, a United States Senator holding a high honor from his State, the Mayor of Salisbury and other officers of the law, chosen by the people to carry out their laws, had appealed in vain to the mob to allow the majesty of their law to be vindicated. It was an instance in which the law was helpless and in a begging attitude before the men who as citizens are sworn to uphold the laws of North Carolina. Every man who has ever voted is sworn to do that and it is a solemn obligation which some men seem to forget that they take for the purpose of preserving law and order and maintaining an established system of society as opposed to anarchy.

The men who participated in that lynching at Salisbury violated their oaths to North Carolina and not only that but committed the crime of murder against established law. They committed two crimes against their State and humiliated North Carolina in the eyes of the world. The murder of the four members of the Lyerly family was a monstrous crime in Rowan county and the mob simply added another crime to that record in the face of a court which was sitting to take the lives of the guilty according to law.

There is a probability that the mob may have lynched one or more innocent parties and an added horror to contemplate is that the lynching may really defeat the ends of justice. The really guilty party may have escaped and at least a trial would have developed all the facts and left no doubt of guilt. Who knows but what the taking of the lives of John Gillespie, Neace Gillespie and Jack Dillingham removed the possibility of fixing the crime on the really guilty man? Indeed all three may have been guilty, but if there are others who should be held to account for the shocking murder, the mob has destroyed that hope.

When will our people learn that one crime on the part of a criminal does not justify another crime by the people, thus putting them in the criminal class?

Lynching is two crimes against the State. It is a violation of the solemn oath of citizenship and a violation of the State's criminal statues.

DOLLARS COMING SLOW.

The Newberg, N. Y., Register says:

"There does not appear to be a very enthusiastic response to the touching appeal of the Republican Congressional Committee for a subscription of one dollar a head from each of the 7,600,000 citizens who voted for President Roosevelt. This, if it could be collected, would make a very pretty campaign fund. The appeal is a reminder of the campaign maneuver in the fall of 1904, when the patriotic heart was stirred by the semi-official announcement that the great corporations were contributing nothing to Roosevelt's election. There was a subsequent sobering of sentiment upon the discovery that Chairman Cortelyou had held out the bag in every direction, not even disdaining the money of widows and orphans in he hands of life insurance companies."

The way Cortelyou raked the trusts and corporations for money to elect Roosevelt will be remembered a long time by people who are opposed to corrupting the elections of the people. The Mr. Cortelyou who raked in the cash for the eRpublican campaign fund is the same Cortelyou who, in a letter to the North Carolina Republicans, expresing his regret that he could not attend their State convnention at Greensboro, wrote a homily about purity in politics and the importance of having a party that could challenge the respect of decent men Skidoo Mr. Cortelyou up.

Lest it be forgotten, however, it should be stated that in this campaign the Republicans are not depending on dollar contributions any more than a church depends on the amount of cash dropped into the collection plate. Or course, the dollar collections will be dumped in with the big subscriptions that the "stand pat" policy calls for and will get.

TOUCH OF STEEL PARALYZES HIM.

Physicians of Houstonville, Ky., and all medical experts who have got up against the mystery, are puzzled over the fact that John P. Wilson, one of Houstonville's most substanntial citizens, drops into a hypnotic state every time he feels the touch of steel to his person. A barber started to shave Mr. Wilson, but the moment the razor touched his face Mr. Wilson's muscles relaxed and the barber thought he was dead. Great excitement followed and it was not until a half hour later that Mr. Wilson awakened and explained that he had been subject to such attacks since his youth. In crossing the railroad Mr. Wilson once accidently touched the rail and dropped to the roadbed as if dead. Some one passing by pulled him off the track just before a train passed over the spot. It is indeed a serious case, but it should be stated that the gentleman's experience is nothing compared to the men who have been paralyzed by "steel common" or "steel preferred."

SHERIFF APPROVED FOR FALLING DOWN.

The following is noted by the Columbia Record:

"The people of Chattanooga have by largely increased majorities re-elected the sheriff who had charge of the convicted negro rapist who was lynched after the United States supreme court had issued an order staying his legal execution. A dispatch to the New York Times mentions the fact that white women generally, without regard to politics of the husbands and brothers, urged and worked for his re-election."

This has the appearaonce of the approval of the sheriff's course for what he didn't do in preventing the Chattanooga lynching. Perhaps sometimes a sheriff can perform duties too strictly on certain occasions is the way some people look at it.

CURRENT COMMENT.

—Maxim Gorky is making a lot of noise not dissimilar to that of a man who has been "booted" off the front stoop and is trying to stifle his rage.—Philadelphia Press.

—The Bryan wave is rising higher and higher every day. He is as certain of the nomination as an event two years in the futdre can be, and his election is rapidly becoming a strong probability.—Birmingham News.

—Now that the Shah of Persia has dismissed his grand vizier instead of chopping off his head, in the good old-fashioned way, at the demand of the people, and China is going to introduce trial by jury, one can almost fancy that the first faint flutter of the gray dawn of the millennium is rising above the Eastern horizon.—Philadelphia Press.

—Veterans of the Civil War are dying now at the rate of 100 a day, according to records of the United States Pension Office. The monthly reports for several months past have shown the death rate among the old soldiers to be in the neighborhood of 3,000 a month. Pension Office officials who have watched the figures closely and known the tendency of the death rate are of the opinion that the number of Civil War pensioners has reached the maximum and that hereafter each succeeding month will show a decrease.—New Orleans States.

—Cardinal Gibbons is on the side of the Baltimore Hack Drivers' Association in its opposition to Sunday funerals, the purpose being to secure for the members the benefits of the common day of rest. Except in cases of contagious diseases there is no very obvious reason why the burial of the dead should not be either hastened or delayed a day for the advantage of a large number of very hard-worked members of the community. Where there are exceptional reasons for making the interment on Sunday it would be easy to provide for a system of special permits. That this is in the main a matter of custom, rather than of necessity, is well known. —Brooklyn Citizen.

—The announcement is made in various Republican newspapers that President Roosevelt will take no part in the factional fight now being waged by the Odell-Platt combination against the Higgins administration. Having interested himself in the selection of a Speaker of the Assembly and precipitated a contest that is splitting his party through the backbone, Mr. Roosevelt proposes to spend a quiet Summer and let the warring factions exhaust themselves. It is doubtful if the President can be kept still during the progress of a battle which threatens the election of a Republican Congress and incidentally a repudiation of his policies and administration. He is a believer in wars and loves the thick of the fight, and therefore admirers of the doughty Executive discount the reports of his remaining passive during a combat which spells discord, disruption and defeat.—Buffalo (N. Y.) Times.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE

—At Whitakers on Monday an inquest has been held over the body of H. Vaughan, who was killed by his son, after his father had fired five shots at the youth. The verdict of the coroner's jury was justifiable homicide.

—Midshipman Joseph P. Norfleet, of North Carolina, who has just returned to the Naval Academy at Annapolis, with the section of his class that has been cruising on the practice ship Severn, has typhoid fever, this making the fourth case of that disease now under treatment at the Naval Academy hospital.

—Raleigh News and Observer: "Many men who have taken no part in Democratic affairs since the days of Populism have registered and will be at the polling places," says the Charlotte Observer in writing of Democratic primaries to be held to-day. The doors of the Democratic party are wide open to all who wish to be admitted and help secure good government. And they are coming into the primaries to "abide in the ship."

—Raleigh News and Observer, Aug. 7: Fire destroyed the large and commodious barn at St. Augustine's School (colored) at an early hour this morning, entailing a loss between $2,200 and $2,500, in part covered by insurance. The exact figures could not be learned. In addition to the destruction of the building there was also burned 14 cows, one mule and a quantity of feed. Two cows and several mules were rescued, and escaped without injury.

—Raleigh News and Observer, Aug. 7: Governor Glenn yesterday received a handsome gift, or rather gifts, for the adornment of his office in the Capitol. These were three handsome vases made of North Carolina koalin and were from Mr. C. J. Harris, of Dillsboro, the Republican nominee whom Governor Glenn defeated in the Gubernational election. The presentation was made by Col. F. A. Olds, the vases being beautifully embellished, having been made in the pottery works at East Liverpool, Ohio. They are now on the mantel in the office. The Governor has also been presented with an oil painting of the late Governor David S. Reid, of Person, which was presented by his sons. The paintinng will be placed on the walls of the office.

—Raleigh Special, August 6: The strike of the carpenters in Raleigh, re-inforced by a number of brick masons who are joining them in the demand for a nine instead of a ten hour day at the same wage per day, continues with the men expressing themselves as confident of success. There are now actually on strike about 100 men, although the two carpenters' unions now number 150 members, the discrepancy between membership and strikers being explained by the fact that a few members of the union working on jobs which are being conducted independently of contractors are still at work and that some of the men have left the city to get work elsewhere. There have left the city about fifteen carpenters and there are still at work some twenty-five or thirty members of the unions.

—Durham Special, August 6: The remains of Joab Burch were brought here this morning from Lake City, S. C., where he died suddenly yesterday morning. The interment took place this afternoon. Mr. Burch lived here, but was buying tobacco on order on the market of Lake City. Concerning his death there is some mystery. He was on the market last Friday, but Saturday, suffering from his head and heart depression, he arose, then went back to his room, saying he was going to sleep, and told the colored man who was with him not to awake him until late in the afternoon. Late in the day he was found in a stupor. Several physicians were summoned and they said that in taking medicine he had taken an over-dose, the medicine taken being probably laudanum. They worked on him all night, allowing short naps and then walking him to wear off the drug. Sunday morning, however, he died.

—Greensboro Special, August 6: The preliminary hearing on the charge of murder against the negro Frank Bohannon will not be had until Wednesday. The examination was to have taken place this afternoon, but counsel for the two negroes, Ki and Oscar Crutchfield, who are in jail charged with being accessories with Bohannon in the killing of Mr. Beacham, had to leave the city this morning and could not return before Tuesday night. Bohannon sticks to his story that he was instigated to the crime by old man Crutchfield, who he says got him drunk and furnished the buggy to send him to Greensboro to buy the gun with which he did the shooting, the son Oscar bringing him and knowing what it was for.

—Mount Airy Special, Aug. 6: Yesterday morning about ten o'clock two or three miles from town, and near the Granite quarry, a rowdy by the name of Petros shot with a double-barrel shot gun and instantly killed Frost Timmons. It seems that Petros, who was drunk, was hunting a young man Matthews, with whom he had had some trouble, and Timmons was acting as peace maker, and did not realize that he was in any danger till Petros turned and shot him. Another account says the two men had some trouble Saturday night, and early Sunday morning Petros secured a shot gun and went after Timmons. The later begged Petros not to shoot him, but his pleadings were in vain. Timmons was shot down and died in a few minutes. The murdered man was 48 years old and leaves a wife and seven children. Petros has not been arrested.

—Asheville Special, Aug. 6: As a result of the trial of Itlian employes of the South and Western road between Marion and Spruce Pine at Marion last week on a charge of conspiracy, District Attorney Holton has started an investigation of peonage practices on the forces of the South and Western and the matter will be thoroughly sifted by government officials. It was learned here to-day that Deputy Marshal Bob Ramsey has, during the past several days, served a number of subpoenas on persons residing on or near the construction of the line between Marion and Spruce Pine who are believed to know something of the manner in which Italians have been worked and that there will be an investigation of the peonage charge before a United States commissioner at Marion Wednesday. It is said that those having the peonage investigation in hand have secured some evidence touching on the matter and that the investigation will doubtless prove interesting. A statement was made on authority to-day that one day recently Deputy Marshal Ramsey heard the grievances of a number of Italians, who claimed that they wanted to leave but that they were told they must not quit the works and that they feared to do so. The deputy marshal straightway, through an interpreter, told the Italians that they were at liberty to quit work whenever they chose, that they could not be held againnst their will. As a result of this information, it is said, 145 Italians left.

NATURE SPARES

The Stricken Rose From Grief.

What a fortunate provision of nature it is, that deprives the rose of mental suffering; for how poignant would be its grief to discover, in the height of its blooming glory, that a canker fed at its heart, and that its beauty and fragrance were doomed forever. Nature always spares the suffering; she is a veritable store-house of pleasing rewards, for those who seek her aid. In the years gone by failing hair and grayness have cast a gloom over the lives of thousands of young women, but thanks to the investigations of scientists the true cause of hair destruction is now known to be a germ or parasite that burrows into the hair follicles. Newbro's Herpicide absolutely destroys this germ, thus permitting the hair to grow as nature intended. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

We have about three different styles and the skirts were made to sell from $3.50 to $5.00 each; we are offering these skirts from $2.00 to $3.50 each. We also have a nice line of colored skirts from $1.50 to $7.50 each. We buy from large factories and they deliver their Fall goods early and we are in a position to sell you goods this season as cheap as we ever sold them in our lives.

I want to say in relation to your dress goods bill; whether you live in this city or a thousand miles off, and you want the best goods and the prettiest styles, I ask you to give me a showing. All persons wishing dress goods samples will send 5 cents for postage, as we do not care to give the samples indiscriminately as it costs both money and the postage.

We want your Fall business. We give you the best goods for the money and premium stamps with every purchase. Our premium department is a beautiful place. It looks like a fairy corner and think! we give those things away without cost to the purchaser. Ask to see this department. Do your trading with us and get something pretty.

concurrence in his proposition for seven new arc lights and two gas lights. The arcs will be placed at Eighth and Church, Ninth and Dawson, at Second and Dawson and at Water and Ann and three in the First ward, place to be designated by Alderman Karr. One of the gas lights will be placed on Eighth, between Princess and Chesnut and the other two at places yet to be named.

Mr. Johnson said he hoped by the 15th to have a contractor for the deep wells, three of which the Board of Audit and Finance have already approved. One of these will be at Front and Red Cross, one at Eighth and Dawson and a third at a location yet to be decided upon.

The contract with the City Livery Company was approved, with the understanding that the communication of the contractors relative to feed to be furnished is to be submitted to the Streets and Wharves Committee and some one be delegated to see that the stock is properly cared for.

The clerk was instructed to ascertain if the Bell Telephone Company had paid for macadam placed on its recent excavations on Third street, to restore the street to its former condition.

The bid of Roger Moore for paving Chesnut street, between Front and Water, with Belgian block, for $2,893, was concurred in, an agreement by the property owners being submitted to pay their pro rata share of the cost, which is $1,410 and the city's share, $1,486. In this connection, the board emphasized the futility of its effort to get the amounts collected from the Fourth street property owners and those at foot of Grace street. It was suggested that the matter be placed in the hands of the City Attorney.

Bid of D. F. Ramsey for painting the roof of the city cart shed in the pound was not concurred in, the board being of the opinion that this work should have been done under the contract with Mr. T. F. Tyler for the erection of the structure.

The action of the Aldermen in making an appropriation for 8,000 additional tons of the macadam from the city rock quarry to complete the Red Cross street work, was not concurred in on the ground that the funds for the same, amounting to about $16,000, is not in sight. The budget of appropriations already provided is for $213,000, and the estimated revenue for the fiscal year is not over $215,000. Several members assented to the opinion expressed by the chairman that he was not in favor of putting "any more of that mud on the streets anyway."

The placing of three fire hydrants on Market street was not concurred in on account of the unsettled condition of water works affairs just at present.

Appropriation for eight additional laborers to cut weeds, etc., for three weeks. was not concurred in, the board being of the opinion that this work should not begin before the first of September. It was intimated that the appropriation would be allowed at that time.

The board non-concurred in the employment of B. F. Turlington as keeper of the smallpox pest house at 50 cents per day while the same is not in use, pay to date back to June 12th. The board was of the opinion that no keeper is needed.

The matter of dividing the cost of the repair of Sixth street bridge with the Atlantic Coast Line was not concurred in, the board adhering to its opinion that the railroad companies are responsible for maintenance of bridges over their tracks, according to a recent order of the Corporation Commission in a case rom Durham.

Bill of attorneys in the case of City of Wilmington vs. E. K. Bryan was not before the board officially, as it was referred to the Finance Committee by the Aldermen, and there was no record of a report from that committee.

Various bonds for minor city contracts were presented and those in due form as approved by the city attorney were passed. The board then spent some time in examining and approving bills for current expenses, after which an adjournment was taken, subject to call of the chairman.

case might be investigated according to law. But last night when the court had become satisfied shortly before, that the best sentiment in this county would uphold the laws of the land and stand by the courts in its administration of the law, a band of men broke into the jail, took three of the prisoners out and lynched them, so the court is informed.

"I will say to the citizenship in my hearing that if there is any law abiding men in Rowan county, and there are such, I would be glad to have your presence during the sitting of the court.

"God Almighty reigns and the law is still supreme. This court will not adjourn until this matter is investigated.

"Gentlemen of the grand jury, I am not going to discharge you this morning, but I will retain you here. I hope you will keep calm and serene. Retire to your room and proceed with your deliberations. I will call you for further instructions later."

The Earlier Story.

Salisbury, N. C., Aug. 7.—The city is quiet after the triple lynching last night. Geo. Irvin and Henry Gillespie and the wife of Jack Dillingham were taken to Charlotte this morning for safe keeping. True bills for murder in the first degree were found by the grand jury yesterday against Irvin, Henry Gillespie and the Dillingham woman, but the mob did not disturb them last night. Henry Gillespie this morning stated that Dillingham had made a confession in the Charlotte jail that he and Nease and John Gillespie murdered the Lyerly family.

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 7.—This afternoon Governor Glenn received a telegram from Judge B. F. Long, at Salisbury to the effect that George Hall had been identified as a leader of the mob that lynched the alleged murderers in jail.

The Governor, at the request of Sheriff Julian and Judge Long, telegraphed an order to the military company at Charlotte to go to Salisbury at once and guard the jail to prevent the liberation of any alleged lynchers who may be arrested.

To-day J. C. McLendon, the Southern Railway engineer who was shot in the mouth, is critically ill at Salisbury. He has a wife and four children. An officer is said to have shot the engineer as he was battering a window. Others say that he was merely a spectator.

Solicitor Hamner is securing names of witnesses to the lynching, to place before the grand jury.

Raleigh Gets the News.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 7.—A special from Salisbury, just received, says a mob of 500 to 1,000 men are now forming. Three companies of the State Guards are now there and the Raleigh company is now ready to move. One gatling gun is being stationed in front and one in the rear of the jail. Orders to the troops are to use no blank cartridges if the mob makes an attack. It is hoped the military preparations are now sufficient to awe the mob but a spirit of unrest still prevails. W. H. B.

Raleigh End of the Story.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 7.—The latest telegrams from Salisbury show that the town is in the throes of intense excitement and that serious results may follow the lynching of the three negroes last night. Saloons are closed and all the business practically suspended. One of the ring leaders in the lynching was placed in jail and other incarcerations are expected momentarily. Threats are freely made that the mob of last night will be called to-gether again and will tear down the jail if necessary to release their friends.

The Governor has wired to Charlotte and Statesville rush orders for troops to leave on special trains for Salisbury. The Governor says he will go himself, if necessary. Great fear is expressed here that a collision may result between the troops and the mob which would cause the death of some good citizens as the result of indiscriminate shooting.

The lynching contagion has spread to Greensboro and it is reported a mob is organizing outside of town to lynch the murderers of Track Foreman Beacham. The Governor has ben apprised of the situation and the Greensboro company which was to have been ordered to Salisbury is held in reserve at home.

While all regret the unfortunate occurrence at Salisbury there is a deep and strong undercurrent of feeling in Raleigh favorable to the lynchers. W. H. B.

Sheriff Julian's Statement.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 7.—Concerning the lynching last night, Sheriff Julian said to-day "The lives of three negroes might have been saved last night but it would have been at the cost of a bloody fight in which fifty or more men would have been killed." The mob faced the soldiers at the jail and the surging mass dared the bluecoats to shoot. But the soldiers had no orders to shoot and were ordered to retire. W. H. B.

General Armfield in Command.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 7.—To-night Governor Glenn sent an order to Brigadier General J. F. Armfield, of Statesville, to go to Salisbury to take command of the troops assembled there and to guard the jail to hold any and all lynchers arrested at any hazard. He is to report to the Governor the conditions and needs. At ten o'clock the Governor has received no notice of any further disturbance at Salisbury to-night.

The Governor's Standpoint.

Surprise was expressed by Governor Glenn this morning at the announcement that was given out from Salisbury that the military had no authority from the Governor to shoot and that it was for this reason that the mob that lynched the Lyerly murderers could not be held back. The Governor says that on August 2, fearing some trouble, he wrote Sheriff Julian at Salisbury putting the military company there under his command. On August 4th he received a letter from Sheriff Julian to the effect that he did not believe there would be any necessity to call out the military company and that such an action would only serve to incense the people and that he believed there was a general desire for the law to take its course.

The Governor says that this was the last he heard of the situation until last night when he was called out of bed about midnight to answer a long distance telephone call from Judge Long at Salisbury to tell him that a mob had gathered at the jail to lynch the negroes. He says he hurried orders to the military companies at Charlotte and Greensboro for them to go at once to Salisbury and tried to get a similar message to the Statesville Company, but could not get the connection over the telephone. However, before the Charlotte and Greensboro companies started for Salisbury the information came from Judge Long that the lynching was done and the orders to the military companies were countermanded.

"This morning," said Governor Glenn, "I telegraphed Judge B. F. Long at Salisbury as follows: 'Spare neither time or expense in efforts to bring the mob to justice. If needed I will come to Salisbury.'"

To Sheriff Julian the Governor telegraphed: "Make every effort to identify the members of the mob that lynched the negroes. If needed I will come in person to Salisbury."

Commenting on the lynching Governor Glenn declared that the lynching is a great blot on the State of North Carolina and he and all good citizens should act with judicial department to bring the participants to justice.

Jailer Capps Has the Medal.

In the bowling alley contest on Carolina Beach, Jailer E. S. Capps, who has recently returned from his vacation there, won the medal there with a score of 300. The medal had previously been held by Mr. John Taylor with a score of 268. Bowling is very popular at Carolina Beach and the alleys of Mr. Kure are often crowded with devotees of the sport.

For Thrashing His Wife.

Joe Burns, a prominent colored hackman of the city, was fined $25 and costs in Justice Furlong's court yesterday on a charge of having horse-whipped his wife. Jealousy, it seems, prompted the attack by Brown. The evidence was that he went to his home Monday night and not finding his wife there, waited until she came when he gave her a severe whipping with a whip. She was able to be in court yesterday, and said that while she was away she was out looking for her husband. The hackman could not pay the fine at once and was remanded to jail.

Mr. Hankins Appointed Deputy Clerk.

In the absence of Col. Jno. D. Tayler, who is in the mountains of Western North Carolina on his vacation, and Deputy Clerk W. N. Harriss, who has been summoned to Pittsboro, N. C., as a witness in a land suit, Mr. A. G. Hankins has been appointed Deputy Clerk of the Court to serve in the absence of those mentioned. Mr. Hankins was in charge of the office yesterday.

Police Refused to Admit National League Umpires to New York Grounds

New York, August 7.—The New York-Chicago National League game, which was scheduled to be played at the Polo Grounds to-day was not played, owing to the refusal of police to admit Umpire Johnstone on the grund, that a riot might ensue if he oficiated.

Both Chicago and New York claimed the game by forfeit, Chicago on the ground that the umpire was barred and New York because Chicago refused to play. The game will go to protest. Rain checks were distributed. The situation grew out of ill feelings over Umpire Johnstone's decisions in Monday's game.

To-night the Associated Press received a dispatch from President Pulliam, of the National League, dated Saratoga, regarding the forfeited game.

President Pulliam says that the game was legally forfeited to Chicago, and that he will stand by the action of Umpire Johnstone to the finish.

He adds that so long as he is president of the league he will sustain every forefit made where an umpire is refused admittance to any park, and that if this does not suit the league, it can have his resignation at a minute's notice.

A Man of Experience

[Copyright, 1906, by C. J. Hirt.]

Charles Black was thirty, unmarried, fairly wealthy and of good family. He had a keen desire to experience the sensation of being wrecked in mid-ocean, to be on the tenth floor of a Babel and cut off by fire, to be fleeing from the waters of a bursted reservoir.

One day he left his rooms, grip in hand, and next day turned up in a city 300 miles away. On the night of his arrival he took a walk among the residential streets and finally selected a house to operate on. He wanted the sensation of burglary.

On a well lighted street, vigilantly patrolled by the police and with part of the family still up, he climbed up the column of a porch and entered a window. In so doing he scratched his hand on a nail and left blood stains here and there. He packed up considerable spoil and could have safely taken it away. He did not choose to, however. He entered another chamber and deliberately awoke a young man who was sleeping. An outcry was raised, and during the midst of it he made his exit. Three blocks away he stopped to chin with a policeman.

Next morning Black had disappeared from his hotel. He told one of the porters before going that he feared arrest. He left a broad trail, but it was three days before the detectives struck it. He led them a chase of 600 miles. They had his description, and yet he doubled back on his trail and rode with them a part of the time. He was experimenting as to the acumen of the average detective. They finally gave up the chase, and he returned to the city where it had begun. The clerk looked a bit astonished, but said nothing. The porter winked at him, but did not give him away.

To get himself arrested he had to write an anonymous letter to the police and to the owner of the house he had invaded. He wanted the sensation of an arrest and trial.

The young man who had been aroused swore to Black's identity, as did also the policeman with whom he had conversed. The hotel porter also came forward, as did others. He had given the name of Williams. The police failed to trace him back. Not one single thing could they find out about his past.

Williams sent for a leading lawyer to take his case. He had a little experiment to work there. He told the lawyer that he was guilty and deserved all punishment that would be meted out to him, but the lawyer did not hesitate a moment about taking the case and preparing for a strong defense to set the burglar at liberty on society again.

When the trial came on it was Williams who experimented with the witnesses for the prosecution. Staring them boldly in the face he defied them to swear that he was the man. They knew he was, and yet they wavered and hesitated and made points in his favor. Even the detectives who had played cards with him on the train while thinking they were pursuing him were not strong in their recognition.

The fact that Williams would not identify himself was against him. The fact that he had returned to the same city and the same hotel was in his favor. His lawyer was feeling certain that the jury would at least disagree when Williams spoiled his case by making certain admissions. He had made up his mind to experiment a little with state prisons. He was called a fool by his lawyer, but he persisted, was found guilty and sentenced to two years in prison.

He had $250 in cash and a credit of $5,000 in bank after he had settled with his lawyer. That did not represent his fortune by any means, but he considered it ample for the experiments he had in view. He had a gold watch in the hands of the police. A detective asked the privilege of wearing it for the next two years. He asked in such a way that Williams granted the request without demur.

At the prison they took his money away, but it was on call. Some of it was called for at once. He wanted extra fare, and it was so arranged that he got it. He wanted a better cell than had been assigned him, and he found it an easy thing to do. He did not want to go to work until he had looked around a bit, and there was no trouble about that.

Williams found that there was caste in state prison as well as out of it, but it was cash instead of blood and birth that made caste.

The other rich man in the west wing of the prison and having a cell next to Williams' was a notorious confidence man. He had been sentenced for five years, but he did not mean to serve even one. After he and Williams had become friends and were running things to suit themselves the "con" man remarked one day:

"When you are ready to leave here just say the word and we'll go."

"But how can we go?" was asked.

"Buy our way out."

Williams rested and experimented for three months. He learned a great deal about human nature on the inside. He discovered that money had more value than he had ever attributed to it. One day he said to the "con" man that he had been there long enough.

"It will cost you a thousand and a half," was the reply.

Williams drew his check for the amount and it was passed on. A week later the pair were standing outside the walls and shaking hands goodby. Williams went to the Pacific coast as a land looker, camped in the woods until he had made certain changes in his looks and then returned to his home and routine, and he lives undisturbed by the baying of the bloodhounds of the law.

MARVELOUS TRIP IN A BALLOON

Two Aeronauts Sailed 225 Miles From New York City in Less Than Twelve Hours.

Brant Rock, Mass., August 7.—Sailing above the clouds and over 225 miles of panoramic land and water from New York city and landing yesterday at the little seashore resort of Brant Rock, near the historic town of Plymouth, Dr. Julian P. Thomas, of New York City, and Roy Knabenshue, a professional aeronaut, made one of the most successful balloon trips yet undertaken in this country, and learned much, it is believed, that will assist in the development of aeronautic navigation.

The balloon was uninjured, but Aeronaut Knabenshue was cut slightly during the final descent at this place. Otherwise nothing marred the flight.

The voyage was made with one stop, and that a voluntary one at Noank, Conn., early in the day whereby the aid of a new guide rope, Dr. Thomas quickly brought his balloon to the earth to procure breakfast and water. The aeronauts landed at Brant Rock at 11:30 yesterday forenoon, and as they left New York at midnight Sunday night, they were nearly twelve hours on their trip.

The trip was made for the purpose of testing two new appliances, a guide rope and water appliance. The ascent in New York was made without mishap at midnight. The balloon rose high over New York city and sailed over Long Island Sound. After several miles a thick fog swept over the sound and the aeronauts were unable to tell whither they were drifting.

By the use of his rope Dr. Thomas brought the car nearer earth, and from the blasts of the fog horns knew he was still over the waters of the sound. Off Bridgeport, Conn., attracted by one of the whistling craft, Dr. Thomas brought his airship still closer to the water and astonished the members of a yachting party by hailing them from the darkness. From them he learned his exact position and then quickly resumed his journey.

At about 5 o'clock this morning the outlines of land could be made out through the fog and by the aid of his new devices of water, anchor and guide rope, Dr. Thomas landed gently at Noank, Conn.

The voyagers had breakfast and were so enthusiastic over the success of their trip, which at this point had been of about 140 miles, the longest thus far attempted by Dr. Thomas, that they decided to continue on their journey.

The sun's action upon the balloon had made it still more bouyant and as soon as released from its anchorage, the big bag shot up high in the air to a height not hitherto reached, and far above the fog bank that still hung over the water. Long Island Sound was gradually left behind and the balloon soared over the hills and meadows of Rhode Island. Desirous of further testing his guide rope, Dr. Thomas dropped nearer to land at Warwick, and descended so close that he was able to ask of wondering inhabitants what place it was.

Over Narragansett Bay and into Massachusetts the balloon sailed and finally the ocean came in view and preparations were at once made for a final descent.

The car descended rapidly until it struck the meadows belonging to Geo. H. Thomas, at Brant Rock. The Car, made unsteady by its lack of ballast, bounded along over the ground for about a hundred yards before its anchor brought it up at the water's edge.

THEY MET ON A YACHTING PARTY

[Original.]

During the summer of 1863 the little steamer Starlight steamed out of one of the inlets of Florida. She could not have taken her name from the night on which she sailed, for it was extremely murky. Indeed she could never have passed the Federal gunboats on a starlight night unchallenged, and it was necessary that she should do so, for she had on board Antoine Delabarre, a native of Louisiana, envoy of the Confederate government, on his way to France for the purpose of inducing Louis Napoleon to interfere in behalf of the newly established government. Delabarre, though a young man, had already distinguished himself in diplomacy.

The day before the Starlight was to sail a young woman who gave her name as Winifred Dove applied for passage. The application was a surprise to the captain, Cushon, who had supposed the intended sailing was a secret. After conferring with Mr. Delabarre he told the girl that she might go and, taking her to her stateroom, locked her in, that she might not further reveal what she knew. The next morning when out of sight of land she was released with a trumped up excuse for the treatment she had received. The Starlight had escaped without having been seen by any of Uncle Sam's watching fleet, the weather cleared and Captain Cushon pointed for Gibraltar. His course ran not far from the American coast, but far enough to be without the line of the blockading ships.

Miss Dove being the only woman aboard the Starlight and the men being uninteresting, Antoine Delabarre naturally turned to her for companionship. Whether or no the Starlight was well named, it appeared to all that Miss Dove was very well named. She was quiescence itself

He first sounded her patriotism for the Confederacy, but beyond confessing herself a secessionist she expressed little interest in the struggle. The young diplomat endeavored to fire her with more ardor. She listened to him demurely, but did not evince any interest in his remarks.

Miss Dove was a very poor sleeper. She would sit on deck at night with Mr. Delabarre till he could keep his eyes open no longer and remain there hours after he had sought his stateroom. During the day she would usually not appear till afternoon.

The Starlight flew the United States flag and, though she passed several merchantmen with the same ensign at the peak, was not molested. When night came on every light was "doused," and as she was painted gray she was not easily visible from a distance. Miss Dove asked Mr. Delabarre why this was done. He told her that the captain was a miser and wished to save oil. She seemed perfectly satisfied with this explanation, and her attendant remarked to himself that the stupidity of some women was very lovely. He asked her how she knew the ship was to sail for foreign parts, and she told him that she had supposed all ships were made to sail somewhere and usually to other countries. This childlike reply only increased his tender feelings for her.

At night only the officer of the deck, the helmsman and two sailors were on duty. Miss Dove was allowed on deck because she was a woman, a Confederate and very stupid. One night or, rather, one morning—it was 1 o'clock—Captain Cushon was on the bridge, a sailor aft and a sailor forward. Miss Dove was sitting on a steamer chair amidships. Suddenly the captain saw the flash of a light on his port bow. It was only for an instant, but it told him that a Yankee war craft was playing the same game as himself while looking for contraband ships. He ran aft and informed the men on duty of the danger and Miss Dove as well, telling them to keep perfect silence. To the helmsman he gave an order to sheer off. Then he ran forward to the bridge.

He was congratulating himself on the certainty of an escape when he heard a "s-h-h-h-ing" sound amidships on his own vessel and, turning, saw a rocket mounting skyward.

There was a terrible commotion on the Starlight. Mr. Delabarre rushed on deck in his nightshirt, and the captain, who was so beside himself with wrath that he could not speak, pointed to Miss Dove. One of the men informed the diplomat that she had fired a rocket and a Yankee gunboat was coming down on them. Another took the girl up and was about to throw her overboard when Delabarre stopped him. The black hull of a man-of-war appeared close at hand, followed by a boom and a shot across the Starlight's bows. Then a boat left the warship, and in a few minutes an officer was climbing up the captured vessel's side. He looked very much puzzled, but determined to know what no lights and a rocket meant. He was still more astonished when Miss Dove darted to him, sought refuge within his arms and told him that a Confederate envoy was on board.

A prize crew was put on board the Starlight, and she was taken to Fortress Monroe. On the way Miss Dove threw off her stupidity and appeared as a fascinating woman, making it her chief business to comfort the much mortified and downcast diplomat. From Old Point the party were escorted by United States marines to Washington.

The secret history of this foiling of an important diplomatic Confederate move is buried in the state department, consequently no one ever learned where Delabarre got his wife. He gave out that he had met her on a yachting party.

WINIFRED ROBERTS.

Mrs. Townsend's Ruse

[Original.]

It was necessary that Anita Townsend should marry a fortune. Her ancestors had been rich for many years, and now suddenly the decision of a lawsuit against them had made them poor. But Anita was especially averse to angling for a rich husband. Not so her mamma. Mrs. Townsend was an angler in deep water—that is, her hook was not visible from the surface. She determined to supply her daughter's deficiency.

Arthur Brewerton was the catch of the season. He came of good stock and had an income of $40,000 a year. Mrs. Townsend concluded to concentrate her diplomatic skill on this one victim. Brewerton had shown some preference for her daughter, but it was generally understood among his acquaintances that he was quite satisfied with the freedom of single life and had no idea of exchanging it for the restraints of matrimony. A gentle pressure was necessary to force him to take the hook.

At the Flemings' dinner party, with a cotillon later in the evening, both Miss Townsend and Mr. Brewerton were present. The party being a young people's affair, Mrs. Townsend was not at first invited; but, not wishing to let slip any opportunity to further her daughter's interest, she declined the invitation for Anita on the ground that she always chaperoned her. This brought an invitation for the mother.

At the dinner table Mrs. Townsend sat on Mr. Brewerton's right, his dinner companion being on his left. Anita sat directly opposite. During the dinner Mrs. Townsend catching a glimpse of a man's shoe under the table beside Brewerton's shoeless right foot was struck with its small size. Indeed since the toe had got turned toward its owner at first glance she thought it might be her daughter's, but instantly she remembered that Anita wore kid slippers.

Now, Anita Townsend had a weak toe joint on her right foot. Her mother borrowed a pencil from Mr. Brewerton and a bit torn from a letter, wrote on it, "Better relieve the joint, dear," and handed it across the table to her daughter. Anita wrote on the other side of the paper, "I have," and handed it back. After this Mrs. Townsend leaned far back in her chair, so that her legs projected far under the table.

The dinner finished, the ladies arose and departed. Then when the men had finished a brief smoke they also left the table for the ballroom, where the musicians were already tuning their instruments. Arthur Brewerton slipped his foot into his shoe and rose with the rest. At the dining room door he encountered Mrs. Townsend, who told him that her daughter wished to see him a moment in the red room to arrange a social matter the two had in hand. Brewerton stepped into the room, which was close at hand, joined the young lady and stood talking with her for some time, then the two entered the ballroom just as the dancing had commenced. There they separated, both having partners for the cotillon.

Mr. Brewerton found his partner at the door waiting for him and, clasping her waist, sailed around in the waltz. It was not long before he found that he was attracting the attention of the whole room. Disengaging himself from his partner, he surveyed himself from head to foot. It was at the foot that he discovered the cause of the interest he excited. On his right foot was a pink kid slipper.

That there was a scandal imminent was apparent to all. There were several dresses among the ladies present of a shade to match the slipper, one of them being worn by Miss Townsend. A number of eyes were turned upon her, and she was discovered sitting with her feet drawn under her skirts. Then her mother hurried to her and escorted her from the room. This was sufficient. Mr. Brewerton and Miss Townsend had been away from the others for some time after dinner and for cause or causes unknown had got mixed as to their shoes.

The Townsends' carriage was called, and mother and daughter left for home without again appearing in the ballroom. Mr. Brewerton, not being able to endure the battery of eyes leveled upon him, begged his partner to excuse him and, ordering his carriage, also left the house. He drove to the Townsends, where he found the mother pacing the drawing room floor excitedly and the daughter in tears.

"How could it have happened?" he said.

"My daughter's future is blighted," cried Mrs. Townsend, with a wail.

"Why so?" asked the young man, who still wore the pink kid slipper.

"Why so? Were you two not together in the red room for half an hour before the dancing? And did not everybody know it?"

"Well?"

"Well? My dear Mr. Brewerton, what were you two doing to change shoes?"

"Mamma!" exclaimed Anita reproachfully.

"You don't think"— began the astonished young man when he was interrupted by the mother.

"Think? If I think, who have perfect confidence in my daughter, what do you suppose all the others know to their own satisfaction?"

The young man hung his head. Then he asked for a few minutes' conversation with the daughter, which was readily granted. When the two joined the mother they told her that they were engaged.

The next day it was announced that Mr. Brewerton and Miss Townsend were engaged, indeed had been engaged for some time. This righted matters, and when they were married soon after the affair was forgotten.

A Kansas Feud

[Original.]

During the border ruffian days in bleeding Kansas my father was one of those rushing in to settle the question whether the state should be slave or free territory. We were from the north—father, mother, sister and I. My father had met with reverses in business and had been persuaded to attempt to recoup in the new region, of which much was expected. I believe, though I am not certain, that our expenses were paid by abolitionists.

We had a farm between Topeka and Lecompton, on the Kansas river. How we got it I don't know

One evening about sunset I was driving the cows in when I saw my father galloping toward the house. In another moment a man shot out from behind the trees, and I heard my father call to my mother to get his rifle, quick. She ran into the house and in a moment was back with it, but just as she handed it to him there were several shots in quick succession, and mother and father both fell. By this time I was appalled at my own danger and hid in the long grass. The man came up and looked at the bodies. Then his attention was arrested by my little sister, three years old, who was standing in the doorway, too young to understand what had happened. Then another man came riding out of the woods and the two talked together. I heard them say that father and mother were both dead and there were two less abolition squatters in Kansas. They were in a quandary as to what to do with my sister, but finally concluded to leave her where she was. This was equivalent almost to leaving her to die, for they had not seen me, and the chances were few that any one would come to the farm in time to save her.

As soon as the men had gone I went to the house and without stopping to make any preparations took little Bessie, carried her to the river, a few hundred feet from the cabin, got out the boat that we kept there in some bushes, launched it, and, putting Bessie in, we floated down the river. I was too shocked and exhausted at first to row, but as it was getting dark, fearing to be out in the night, I took up the oars and pulled till I saw a settler's cabin on the bank. The occupants were southern people, but not ruffians by any means. Indeed, they gave us every succor and sympathy. With them Bessie grew up to consider them her parents, and I felt as much attachment for them as she.

I was often asked if I would recognize my parents' murderer and was several times confronted with men to identify him, but all I could say about him was that he was very young, and I never saw any one who looked like him. As the years passed the indistinct images faded entirely from my mind. Not so the incident. That remained as distinct as the day it occurred. As soon as I grew old enough to handle a gun I spent hours in the woods practicing at shooting, preparing for the day when I should meet the murderer. I was boyish enough not to doubt that I would surely do so.

When the civil war came on I was seventeen years old. Having been born of northern parents and brought up by southerners, my interest in the struggle was neutralized. I thought of entering the northern army, but only in hopes of meeting the enemy I longed to meet. But the chances were not sufficient even for my enthusiastic or, rather, imaginative temper, and I put off the day of enlistment.

One evening during the middle of the war I was at a hotel in Independence, Mo., and stepped into the barroom to get a cigar. A number of southern sympathizers were there, men who had taken part in the "border ruffian" war, talking over their experiences. One of the number, a man about thirty, told the story about which my life revolved. His only qualms of conscience were having left a little child to die uncared for, but he even cracked a joke about this.

The meeting with my enemy was the happiest moment of my life. I was debating how I would deal with him when he turned and, seeing me standing apart, asked me to drink.

"Thanks," I said, "I never drink with murderers!"

Of course I had my revolver ready before I threw down the gauntlet, and he was obliged to temporize.

"Yer mighty perticular," he said.

"Not with whom I fight."

"And when do you want to fight?"

"Now."

We agreed to go out into the street and take positions at opposite ends of the block, then advance and shoot as soon as we saw each other. I could have killed him where we were, but if I had done so his friends would have killed me. Just before going out I went near him and said in a low tone, "I'm the son of the people you murdered and the brother of the little girl you left to die on the farm."

He paled, and I knew his nerve was gone. As we went to our respective positions I turned every few moments to make sure he didn't try to get away. When at last I saw him standing on his corner I felt that my revenge had come. At a given signal we advanced slowly. The street not being very well lighted, we could not have distinguished each other if there had been any one else on the sidewalk. My eyes were remarkably farsighted and I saw him distinctly. From his movements I judged that he could not clearly make me out. Since I had left him rattled, and believing that his vision was inferior to mine, I resolved not to hurry. When we got within shooting distance he fired. His bullet grazed my shoulder. I pulled my trigger and he fell dead.

BANK LOOTED TO THE FINISH

Affairs of Milwaukee Avenue State Bank of Chicago In Hopeless Tangle

EVEN SAFETY BOXES ROBBED

President and Cashier Have Fled to Canada, Having Evaded Police in Many Cities—Vice President Under Arrest.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Chicago, August 7.—Theodore Stensland, vice president of the Milwaukee Avenue State Bank, was arrested late this afternoon on a charge of violating the banking laws of the State. Earlier in the day the institution was placed in the hands of a receiver, and Paul O. Stensland, president of the bank and father of the vice president, together with Cashier Herring, were officially declared fugitives from justice and their personal descriptions placed in the hands of the police throughout the country.

Besides the discovery of many irregularities in the management of the bank, it was also found that even the safety deposit boxes, owned and rented to patrons by the bank, had been tampered with and rifled.

The specific charges on which Theodore Stensland was arrested was that of having accepted deposits at the bank when he knew the institution to be insolvent. The arrest was made in the office of Chief of Police Collins, where Stensland had gone to confer with the head of the police department.

The warrant for the arrest of the vice president was sworn out by Mr. J. P. Straub, a liquor dealer, who declared that last Saturday he deposited $350 in the bank, and that Theodore Stensland, as one of the officers of the institution, had knowledge then that the bank was insolvent. Straub contends that the vice president should have notified the acting officers of the bank not to receive any deposits, but that this had not been done and his money was taken in violation of the banking laws.

Later in the day Jacob J. Kern, a former State's Attorney, signed bonds for $5,000 for the release of Theodore Stensland.

The promises held out yesterday that the elder Stensland would appear in Chicago to-day were not fulfilled, and it is the belief of the police, based on dispatches from several Northern cities, that he has fled into Canada.

Cashier Herring, sought on a similar warrant, is thought to have reached the Dominion by another route.

The day's developments were productive of the first ray of hope for the depositors, who yesterday believed their savings of years were swept away in the wreck. David R. Forgan, vice president of the First National Bank, and such of those to whom the status of the defunct bank's affair had been laid bare, declared that probably seventy cents on the dollar would be paid in the final adjustment.

The affairs of the bank are said to be in an almost hopeless tangle and new irregularities are being disclosed as the examiners go further into the books. President Stensland loaned money to himself, it is alleged, by the subterfuge of having employes sign the notes. Specific instances came to light during the day of the looting of the safety boxes. One in particular to which the attention of the police was called is that of Mrs. Lidia Herman, who declared that $150 of her funds had been taken.

The clearing house committee is sparing no effort to bring the missing president to justice. Handwriting experts, it is said, will be put to work at once upon the case to establish the evidence of forgery.

Belief that Stensland has made his escape into Canada is reported by a report from Michigan, that the missing banker was seen on a Duluth and Superior car, en route to Superior. Another dispatch from Superior from Chief of Police McKennan, tended to show that Stensland made his way to Canada by boat from Duluth. Cashier Herring is thought to have reached the line by way of Detroit.

Frank Jacobs, a bay St. Louis, Miss., merchant, 75 years old, shot and killed himself at that place yesterday under usual circumstances. He had written to a company in New Orleans ordering drugs which the company replied it would noe send as there was a drug house in Bay St. Louis. Jacobs then wrote a letter to the manager of the New Orleans company He was arrested on the charge that this letter contained objectionable matter and his suicide followed.

BLACKENED NAME OF HIS WIFE

Augustus Hartje Sat Under Biting and Stinging Criticism of Her Attorney Yesterday.

Pittsburg, Pa., August 7.—The Augustus Hartje divorce case has been closed. With a brief and impassioned address by Attorney J. Scott Ferguson, the curtain dropped to-day, but not before Mr. Ferguson's word was declared to be false in open court by Attorney John M. Freeman, senior counsel for Mrs. Hartje, the respondent.

At the close of Mr. Ferguson's brief argument, Mr. Freeman advanced to the rails and said that he wanted to correct Mr. Ferguson's account of a conference in Attorney Watson's office.

"What you say took place did not take place," he shouted at Mr. Ferguson, who colored and cried out, "That's a matter of veracity between us. I'll put my word against yours any day."

"Gentlemen, we can't permit this," said Judge Frazer, and this incident closed the trial. Immediately Mrs. Hartje was surrounded by attorneys and friends.

Hartje sat in the court to-day under a storm of biting, stinging criticism from Attorney Freeman, who made the closing argument for Mrs. Hartje. Hartje, who showed emotion yesterday when the children were referred to, sat stolid as an image today when Freeman accused him of being the author of the alleged love letters from Mrs. Mary Scott Hartje to "Tom" Madine, and the mainspring of the alleged conspiracy to blacken his wife's name.

As Judge Frazer stepped down from the bench he said: "I'm glad it is over. When this case started I thought it would take no longer than a week. I had no idea it would be so long. I am going on my vacation now and won't be back until the Saturday before the first of September. I will take up this case after that. My decision may not be given until late in the fall."

Herman Stab and John Anderson, the two detectives who were charged with having stolen papers and other articles from the trunk of "Tom" Madine, during their search for evidence prior to the Hartje divorce case, waived hearings to-day in the court of Alderman F. M. King. Attorney Edward Hartje, who defended them, urnished bond in the sum of $2,000 for each man.

IOWA DEMOCRATS FOR WM. J. BRYAN

State Convention Pledged Support to His Nomination for President In 1908.

HIGH PRAISE FOR PEERLESS

Resolutions Extol Statesmanship and Pure Personality of Nebraskan. Tariff for Revenue Only and Senators by People.

By Wire to The Morning Star.

Waterloo, Ia., Aug. 7.—The Democratic State convention to-day nominated a full State ticket headed by Claude B. Porter, of Appanose county, for Governor, and John D. Denison, Jr., for Lieutenant Governor. The convention adopted a platform and a resolution pledging to Wm. Jennings Bryan the support of Iowa Democrats for the Presidency in 1908, and adjourned sine die to-night.

The platform demands legislation to destroy trusts, favors rate legislation in Iowa to give rates as low as inter-state rates, a two cent passenger fare, a State primary law that will protect all parties, election of United States Senators by the direct vote of the people, laws to punish corporations for contributions to political funds, and asks for the assessment of railroads in Iowa by a non-partisan commisison.

On the tariff and other national questions the platform says:

"We believe in tariff for revenue and that there should be immediate relief granted to the people who are now being robbed by extortionate prices exacted under shelter of the tariff. We believe the tariff should be removed from all trust made goods in the removal of all duties on iron, steel, lumber and coal We demand the enactment of such legislation as will effectually destroy all trusts and the strict enforcement o fall laws concerning the same, and we denounce the executive of the State of Iowa for failure to enforce existing laws."

The following was added to the platform as an endorsement of Bryan:

"We endorse the exalted character, peerless statesmanshiup, the high-minded and pure personality of Democracys conceded leader, Wm. Jennings Bryan ,and pledge him our unqualified support for the Presidency in 1908."

TO TALK OVER THE RATE BILL.

General Counsel and Railroad Officials to Hold Meeting.

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 7.—Through the instrumentality of Edward Baxter, counsel for the railroads of the South before the In-terstate Commerce Commission, a meeting of general counsel and highest traffic officials of Southern roads will be held at the Marlborough-Bleheim Hotel, Atlantic City, on August 14. A thorough review of the railroad rate law is to be the object of the meeting. The conference will, it is believed, be the largest and most important yet held on the subject. Counsel for all the New England trunk lines and the Chicago roads have been invited to attend.

SYRIA LEPER CREATES PANIC.

People of West Virginia Won't Go Near Unfortunate.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Washington, D. C., Aug. 7.—In a tent on a bleak mountain side, in Randolph county, West Virginia, not far from the town of Elkins, George Rossi, the Syrian leper, about whom there has been so much concern on the part of the health authorities of dozens of cities during the past three weeks, is existing without care of any kind. The people in the vicinity are said to be panic stricken over the presence of the leper and the health authorities of the State of West Virginia are threatening the Baltimore and Ohio railroad with all sorts of dire consequences for bringing the diseased man into the State.

Orders were issued to-day that Rossi be visited in his mountain tent and examined by a surgeon of the Marine Hospital service, and a Syrian interpreter, with a view of ascertaining his status in this country. It is understood, in an unofficial way, that the man came to the United States about four years ago. How he got into the country, at what port, what examination he was subjected to, and various other inquiries are what the officials want answered. It is believed that he is deportable, under the immigration laws, to the country whence he came.

Near Paris yesterday Generals Andre and Negrier fought a duel with pistols in the park surrounding the residence of Prince Joachim Murat. Gen. Andre fired without hitting his opponet and Gen. Negrier declined to fire. The principals left the field unreconciled.

TERRIFIC FLOOD IN THE WEST

Damage Considerable, But Reports of Loss of Life Exaggerated—Railroad Tracks are Damaged.

By Wire to The Morning Star.

Fort Worth, Texas, Aug. 7.—A special from Brownwood says: Many lives are reported lost as a result of a flood in this neighborhood, but as the wires are down confirmation at this time is impossible. Five hundred people are homeless. Railway banks have been washed out for miles and a pile driver sent out with 200 laborers was unable to proceed further than here.

Report Probably Exaggerated.

Fort Worth, Tex., Aug. 7.—Statements sent out to-day from here that large loss of life has been caused in Texas by floods are exaggerated. Heavy rains have occurred in Western and Central Texas, but no news as serious as reported has reached Fort Worth.

Truth About the Matter.

Dallas, Texas, Aug. 7.—Specials to the News from San Angelo county to-day show that first reports of flood damage were greatly exaggerated. The Colorado and Concho rivers are subsiding. Ranchmen have lost many head of cattle, horses and sheep, and in the Brookwood section crops on low lands have been ruined. The Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railway expects to have its bridges repaired by to-morrow. No lives have ben lost.

Floods In Indian Territory.

Ardmore, I. T., Aug. 7.—A terrific rain almost equal to a cloud burst fell in this section last night and today. All streams are out of their banks and the low lands are flooded. A portion of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe has been washed away and the St. Louis and San Francisco bridge near Francis is reported out. All lines are running behind schedule. The Canadian and Washita are the highest in years.

CANDIDATE UNDER ARREST.

Man Running for Governor in S. C. In Trouble.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 7.—A. C. Jones candidate for Governor, was arrested at the State campaign meeting at Chester to-day by orders of Mayor Hardin, who was seated on the platform. Jones had made his spech along with the other candidates for Governor when J. Frazer Lyon, candidate for Attorney General, was delivering his speech, Jones interrupted him with a question. Lyon replied with a question. Jones then demanded to be heard, but the chairman refused the demand. Jones persisted, whereupon his arrest was ordered, two policemen coming from the audience to make the arrest. After his arrest Jones quieted down and the charge will not be pushed.

—One of the colored carriers in the Raleigh postoffice is in trouble, charges against him having been made by an inspector, these being for withholding and detaining mail. It is stated that failing to make his route in the required time he took mail to the postoffice and secreted it, it remaining there two days. His dismissal has been recommended to the Postoffice Department. The negro, P. W. Dowd, was bound over to Federal Court. He gave bond and is still on duty.

Word reached Washington yesterday that August Peterson, Swedish Vice consul in Washington died at sea while returning to this country from a visit to his home in Swedin and was buried at sea August 3.
